Model with a heart wins

A MANZIMTOTI model Angelique Janssen won the KZN Top Model and Most Photogenic Model KZN at the Protea Hotel in Durban on Saturday, 10 December.

"I was absolutely stunned when I won both titles, as I certainly did not expect it," said the gorgeous 20-year-old model.

"There were 55 female models from all over KZN in the semi-finals and only 15 of us advanced to the finals.

There were beautiful girls in the photographic category, so I feel blessed that I won this section as well. I am so grateful, as I am mostly a photographic model.

I only expected to do my best, and I believed that my best would be good enough. I put a lot of work in prior to this pageant, as it had an introduction, swim wear, evening wear and questions section. It was not all about beauty alone.

The competition was extremely tough. The girls weren't just beautiful, they were friendly, intelligent and supportive too. I could see each of them wanted to win as much as I did."

Angelique said she was motivated to enter by her Embrace campaign. In the campaign, which she launched in mid-2016, she speaks to teens and women about loving themselves and embracing their physical 'imperfections' which hold them back.

Her campaign was inspired by a scar she has on her arm from a suicide attempt in grade 8.

"I entered so that I would have a bigger platform that would allow me to take this campaign further and also to practice what I preach. I knew there would be a bikini section and I wanted to spread a positive message that even though my body isn't perfect, and even though I have cellulite and scars, I can still be confident in who I am. In all my years of modelling, this was my first bikini walk.

As Miss Photogenic Top Model KZN, I am going to keep doing my photographic modelling and photo shoots with a positive meaning behind it. As a photographic model, I love creating images that evoke a positive message. As Miss Top Model KZN I plan on expanding my Embrace campaign and to fulfil my duties to uplift my community and be a good role model. Next on my agenda is to redefine and intensify the definition of 'beauty with a purpose'. I'm planning many community uplifting projects for 2017, hand-in-hand with Zakhele Khumalo, owner of KZN Top Model SA, who is also a member of the Playhouse Opera Company and Coca Cola Soul ambassador. I will go to more schools, even in the rural areas, to talk to the girls about confidence, self-love and emotional intelligence. These three things, I believe, are vital to become a confident and successful young adult.

I'm also planning to resurrect my anti-bullying campaign, as the issue of bullying in schools is still something I would like to bring to light and support the children being bullied and help the schools establish a bigger support system.

I thank my family for supporting me through this journey, Zakele Khumalo and Clive Hadebe for creating this amazing beauty with a purpose pageant, and the owners of Minty's Fabric in Overport for sponsoring my gorgeous evening dress.

I truly felt like a princess. I am so grateful to everyone who believes in me."

Police call for school bus crash witnesses

AMANZIMTOTI police appeal for witnesses to a motor vehicle accident which took place in April to make contact with them.

The crash between a yellow Mazda Marathon school bus and a gold coloured Toyota Avanza took place at 7.30am on Old Main Road, Fekleki near Amanzimtoti on Tuesday, 26 April this year.

The school bus was carrying 14 children between the ages of six and 13 years.

Police need both witnesses and the parents or guardians of the children to come forward.

Passengers injured in the crash were transported to Prince Mshiyeni and Isipingo hospitals by KZN and Sisanda ambulances.

Amanzimtoti detectives are investigating a case of reckless and negligent driving and alleged drunk driving.

Witnesses and parents or guardians of the children are asked to contact investigating officer W/O Sandile Msomi in order for the case to be finalised, on 031-913-1328 or 073-705-2086.

Pirate DVDs seized

TWO men were arrested in a pirate DVD raid in Isipingo on Wednesday, 14 December.

Alpha Alarms tactical unit joined members of the Isipingo SAPS crime prevention led by Vispol commander, Lt Col L Rossouw and regional manager of the Southern African Federation Against Copyright Theft, Sagren Naicker in the raid in the Isipingo CBD.

"The team cordoned off an area and swooped on illegal traders," said Alpha Alarms spokesman, Krishnee Naidoo.

"Two suspects were detained at Isipingo SAPS and more than 2,000 pirate DVDs were confiscated and entered into the SAPS 13 register." The men face charges of contravening the Film and Publications Act and the Copyright Act.

Storm rips roofs from Adams houses

By Simiso Ngcobo

HEAVY rains on Thursday, 8 December destroyed the roofs of several houses in Adams Mission.

The Mnyandus were one of the families whose home's roof was removed by the heavy rains.

The storm took its toll at about 4pm.

Sbongiseni Mnyandu said the high winds and heavy rain only lasted 20 minutes but in the short space of time, more than 15 houses were damaged. "I wasn't surprised that my roof was blown away by the wind, because it is an old house but I was surprised by the short duration of time that this incident took – it was just 20 minutes or less," said Sbongiseni, who was on his way back home from work when the storm unleashed its power.

Three children inside the house during the incident were unharmed, but shocked and traumatised.

The family registered for the RDP houses in 2008 but there were no actions taken as yet. "In 2008 my house was damaged by the floods, and I decided to register for the RDP, but they were no actions taken, and I registered again in August this year, but I'm still waiting," Mnyandu said.

Syabonga Mthembu, whose house was also damaged, is also awaiting an RDP house. "Three months ago, four men came and measured my yard, and promised they would build a four-room RDP house for me. It has been three months since and I'm still waiting," said Mthembu.

Syabonga's nephew, Samkelisiwe Mthembu told the Sun she saw trees falling down and heard dogs barking, but she couldn't see what was causing their reaction. "I was so shocked to see the trees falling down. The dogs were barking like they were seeing a ghost, but after 20 minutes it was over," said Samkelisiwe.

Sbongiseni Mnyandu explains how his home's roof was removed by the driving wind and rain unleashed by a storm over Adams Mission on Thursday, 8 December.

Ex-Toti muso's CD hits shelves

JUST in time for the festive season, an ex-Toti musician's band's CD has been made available locally.

Danre van der Spuy, who is one half of Wolwe-Dans, was spotted in Galleria Mall on Tuesday, 20 December, to confirm their first CD is available for sale at Musica.

Made up of Danre and band mate Landru Ehlers, Wolwe-Dans released their first CD entitled 'Groete Van My' two months ago. Danre describes it as an Afrikaans pop rock album and said it still feels "unreal".

Having grown up in Amanzimtoti, he schooled at Kuswag and was always in the school choir, which is where the musical bug bit him. "I was in grade 9 when I joined my sister's ex-boyfriend's band Doringdraad as a back-up vocalist," said Danre. "That's when I knew for sure this is what I wanted to do."

The vocalist and guitarist studied music at the Malie Kelly Vocal Academy last year, after completing his BCom in business management at Potchefstroom. While under her tutelage, Idols vocal coach Malie Kelly sensed potential when she heard some jams he was playing one day, which gave rise to the album.

Wolwe-Dans' CD Groete Van My is available at all Musica stores, including Galleria, on iTunes and from the Google Play store.

Danre van der Spuy holds his band's CD, which is available at Musica.

New lifeguards qualify in time for holidays

EIGHT youngsters whose goal was to swim the Midmar Mile earlier in the year have qualified as lifeguards at Amanzimtoti main beach.

Amanzimtoti beach manager, Jayce Govender said the eight youths from Dakota informal settlement will assist Amanzimtoti Lifesaving Club over the festive season.

"Their training started in September on Toti beach after two months at the Isipingo tidal pool," said Jayce.

"They entered the Midmar Mile as a development team, but we saw they had potential to train as lifeguards."

The youngsters were coached by the pool supervisor in Isipingo, Leonard Pillay and technical instructor, Mthokozi Cele.

The programme has been such a success that the next intake of voluntary lifeguards are already undergoing training.

If any member of the public would like to become a lifeguard, visit one of the three lifesaving clubs in the area - Amanzimtoti, Warner Beach or Winkelspruit - on a Sunday at 9am.

Proud of the new qualified lifeguards at Amanzimtoti main beach are lifeguard Clive Msomi, beach manager, Jayce Govender, law enforcement officer, Thola Mfeka, technical instructor, Mthokozi Cele and senior lifeguard Peacemaker Mthethwa.

Willem Veenman will be remembered

By Vicky Rowling

THEIR hearts became intertwined through a runaway ball of wool but now the yarn of "The Book Man and The Knitting Lady" has finally reached its end.

Wim and Anne Veenman, residents of many years standing in the local community, celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary on 5 November. Their story book romance began with a twist in a railway track.

It lasted through 60 years of faithful commitment that only death severed. After reaching a milestone in love and marriage, Wim died on 10 November. Wim and Anne are well remembered by many as "The Book Man and The Knitting Lady."

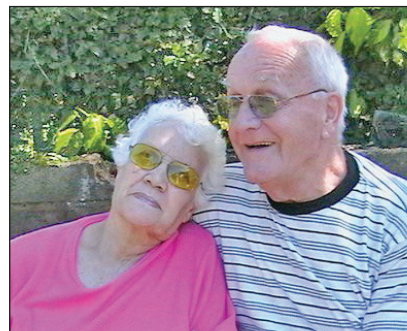

They ran a little stall together at the old Toti CBD and later used a cart in the hallway at Winkle Pick n Pay. It was always filled with Anne's knitted wares and piled high with Wim's secondhand books. It was a familiar and well-loved landmark.

Then tragedy struck one sad weekend about 10 years ago, when Anne suddenly became blind almost overnight. However, in spite of the handicap, the two continued with their little business for some time after that.

Anne still busied herself plying her knitting needles. She cut a brave figure in dark glasses, while Wim, always her champion, sat faithfully beside her.

Willem Veenman, or Wim as he was known, was born in Holland on August 18, 1932. He was the youngest of eight children.

Growing up as a small child in Rotterdam

The love story of Anne and Wim Veenman, which spanned 60 years, ended with Wim's death on 10 November.

during the Second World War, he personally experienced the hunger pangs and deep sorrow of families torn apart by the ravages of warfare.

To save him from starvation, his mother sent him to an orphanage where he could at least be fed. But the orphanage was destroyed by German bombs and Wim, as a very little boy, found himself plodding along, walking in a line, one of many ragged starving people with no concept of time or place.

Wim was so infested with lice that his clothing was virtually moving on his thin little body. A German soldier noticed him and picked him out of the line.

This action no doubt saved him from death through disease and starvation. Wim was sent to a kindly farmer and his wife as a foster child of war.

Happily, at the end of World War Two, he was reunited with his own family in Rotterdam.

Wim came to South Africa as a humble young railwayman in search of his fortune and he found riches indeed. On a train ride to Durban, he met the love of his life.

Then a pretty young girl of 19, Anne was seated on the train, serenely knitting, when a twist in the track seemingly gave the ball of wool a life of its own.

It dropped off her lap and proceeded to skip down the aisle, unravelling itself between the leather seats in a tangled web. Sensing a wonderful opportunity to introduce himself, Wim went scrabbling on all fours after it.

His gallant act and subsequent winding up of the wool caused their hearts to become intertwined. A few months later, they tied a permanent nuptial knot that was to last for 60 memorable years.

Wim is survived by his wife, Anne, who lives with their eldest daughter, Cheryl-Anne and her husband, Edwin Potgieter of Queens Terrace, Doonside. Wim is also survived by two siblings, older sisters who are residents in Holland.

He leaves behind two sons, Warren and Leon, as well as two daughters, Grace and Erika and their respective spouses and is survived by 10 grandchildren, a great grandchild and a great great grandchild. Riches indeed.

His body was cremated and a beautiful memorial service was held at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses in Kingsburgh. Tulips formed part of the lovely floral arrangement on the platform.

Wim's bright face and ready wit will be sorely missed by his loving family and friends.

Warner Beach resident duped out of R3,700

A WARNER Beach resident is fuming after he parted with R3,700 for tarring to be done to his driveway, and the contractor disappeared with his money without completing the work.

Werner Brummer said he'd sourced the contractor's name and phone number from one of the several light pole boards in the area which advertise tarring services.

"I was retrenched about five months ago and wanted to do a few projects before I put my house on the market," said a disgruntled Werner.

The guy came for a quote with all the correct equipment to measure and assess.

When he arrived with his team of workers, two guys started on the prep work, but he said he needed to go buy materials and needed a deposit.

Werner said he could kick himself for giving him R3,700 as a deposit. The man left and despite his promises to return, Werner hasn't seen him since. "I called him several times and there was one excuse after the other – he was stuck in traffic and several others, but the bottom line is he never returned."

To add to his woes, about two hours after the contractor left, his two workers said they were going to buy some lunch – and they too disappeared without a trace.

"I've tried calling, but he doesn't answer his phone anymore. I want to warn others to be careful and guarded about paying contractors before the work is done."

What irks Werner the most is that he was told he couldn't open a police case and would have to pursue the matter through a civil court case – a recourse which would prove too costly for him to consider.

"I've since seen this guy's advertising boards locally, as well as in Malvern and Durban North and people need to be warned."

Visionary principal retires after 43 years of service

THE principal of the Durban School for the Hearing Impaired (DSHI) in Amanzimtoti has retired after 43 years of service.

Thayanaigee 'Tyna' Naidoo served as principal of the special school for the past 33 years and she was given a warm send-off at school on Wednesday, 30 November.

Taking over the helm in 1983, Tyna was one of the youngest female principals at the time.

She graduated at the University of Durban Westville with a diploma teaching of handicapped and hearing-impaired learners in 1971.

She took up the duties as an English teacher at a small special school in January 1972, which was opened by the Natal Blind and Deaf Society.

Her dedication and compassion towards special learners paid dividends in creating a learning environment where deaf, hard-of-hearing, intellectually-disabled and autistic learners could thrive and find their place in society.

"I am going to miss the contact with the special children to whom I have dedicated my entire career," said Tyna.

"The past 43 years of my life have been spent with the special child being the focus of my attention. My time has been characterised and moulded to creating the best possible environment for pupils to achieve and attain their maximum potential."

The visionary principal has seen the school through two relocations, before creating a base at the present address in Adams Road.

She was instrumental in securing grants and sponsorships that allowed the school to be fenced, buses to be bought and an autistic unit being built.

Under her guidance, the school has blossomed and excelled in all spheres.

"My tenure as principal has provided me with an opportunity of opening doors that were inaccessible to the special child. Achieving this has been a challenging and rewarding experience, especially when I see the outcomes attained."

Tyna has always placed great emphasis on academic achievement and the school has been a proud recipient of the LSEN School Achievers Award for maintaining a 100% pass rate in the matric senior certificate examinations.

She has also created many opportunities for learners by introducing vocational courses and forming alliances with MERSETA, SHEETECH SA, and the National Institute for the Deaf.

Her achievements have been profound and will be remembered as the building blocks of the school's success. Members of the school governing body, parents, staff and pupils at the school thank her for her dedicated service through the years.

She has been a role model to all, with her achievements and dedication to the upliftment of the pupils with special needs making a remarkable difference to the lives of many. "I leave this institution with pleasant memories and reminiscence in the success of what we have achieved as a team."

I strongly believe that the staff are up to the challenges ahead and will continue to engage to improve the quality of life of the special child in our care," said Tyna. "In my retirement I will firstly take time off for myself and travel. Thereafter, I hope to give back some of my time to the special children in therapy sessions, drawing on my experience and years of interaction with them."

Attorney cheats death again

AMANZIMTOTTI attorney Yolandi van der Watt, who almost died in a shooting incident in Doonside in February, has had another close escape after three men invaded her Shulton Park house on Friday, 9 December.

Yolandi, her husband, two young children and elderly mother were asleep in their Vasco Da Gama home when three young men smashed their main bedroom window with a spade to gain entry at about 2am.

"My youngest daughter was asleep with us in the bed," said Yolandi. "My 61-year-old mother came into the room when she heard the noise and we fought them off. Fortunately they were not armed, although they pretended to be. One of them hit my mother and she fell."

The family fought back so fiercely, the men decided they had had enough, grabbed car keys and fled, but dropped the keys on the way out.

Yolandi had the presence of mind to hit the panic button as soon as they broke the window and their security company and Toti SAPS were quick to respond.

A month earlier the family lost all their electronic devices after their lounge was ransacked as they slept.

Fortunately Yolandi's three-year-old daughter slept through the commotion and her 18-month-old daughter, who usually sleeps in her cot by the window, was in bed with them.

Her mother was taken to hospital as she was bleeding profusely.

"We are lucky to be alive," said Yolandi, who was full of praise for the CCPO who checked up on the family the following day.

'I just want 2016 to end – it has been such a traumatic year for me'

– Yolandi van der Watt

"If they had been armed, it would have been a different story. We hit, kicked and screamed as we fought them off. It was the most vicious and brutal attack. They had no fear. They crashed through the window right on top of us. It was absolute madness."

Yolandi has only just recovered from her shooting ordeal in February. She was handling a divorce case, and had arrived at Sunsands flats in Beach Road to accompany 62-year-old Belinda Els while she removed her clothing from the flat she shared with her estranged husband, Nicolaas Els (67).

On their arrival, Nicolaas went to the eighth-floor flat of his brother-in-law, Richard Northmore (60) and shot him in the left shoulder. Fortunately he survived the attack.

Els then ran down to the first floor where he shot and killed the caretaker of the block of flats and Yolandi's father Butch, as well as his own wife, before killing himself.

Yolandi was shot in the neck and back of the head at point blank range. She spent six weeks in St Augustine's Hospital, two in ICU, and six weeks in rehab.

"I just want 2016 to end," said Yolandi. "It has been such a traumatic year for me."

Amanzimtoti SPCA Furry Fact

Big bad bangs

ANIMALS have very acute hearing.

Loud bangs and whistles may cause them actual pain in their ears.

But by following these simple guidelines your pet need not suffer.

Dogs, cats and fireworks

* Always keep dogs and cats inside when fireworks are being let off.

* Make sure your dog is walked earlier in the day before the fireworks start.

* Close all windows and doors, and block off catflaps to stop pets escaping and to keep noise to minimum. Draw the curtains, and if the animals are used to the sounds of TV or radio, switch them on (but not too loudly) in order to block out some of the noise of the fireworks.

* Ensure dogs wear some form of easily readable identification, even in the house. They should have at least a collar and tag.

* Think about fitting pets with a microchip, so that if they do run away they have a better chance of being quickly reunited with you.

* Prepare a den for your pet where it can feel safe and comfortable, perhaps under a bed with some of your old clothes. They may like to hide there when the fireworks start.

* Avoid leaving your pet alone during such potentially upsetting events. If you do have to leave the house, don't get angry with your pet if you find they have been destructive or toileted after being left on its own. Shouting at a frightened pet will only make them more stressed.

Remedies to use:

1. CalmEze tablets or gel
 2. Eco-fear
 3. Put a T-shirt or pet jacket on your pet.
- Importantly, contact your vet for remedies you can use for your pets.

Merry Christmas and happy New Year pet parents.

Dear Editor -

The SUN publishes letters:

- * accompanied by the writer's full name, address, telephone number
- * even if you use a nom de plume * the shorter the better - letters of 200 words or less get preference
- * e-mail: southcoastsun@dbn.caxton.co.za
- * fax: 031-903-5756 * PO Box 88, Toti, 4125 * deadline is Tuesday, 11am
- * the editor reserves the right to shorten, or amend letters

* THE overloading of heavy vehicles on Natal's Roads remains unacceptably high and figures released by the Natal Provincial Administration's Road branch reveal that in October 47% of vehicles weighed were overloading. At the Winklespruit weigh bridge 400 vehicles were weighed in October and of those 281 were overloaded.

* THE two whale sharks that beached themselves on Kingsburgh beaches last week will provide nourishing sustenance for 4,000 baby crocodiles due to hatch in the next few weeks.

The manager of Crocworld crocodile farm near Scottburgh, Angus Drummond, was quick off the mark last Wednesday when he heard that a massive whale shark had beached at Warner Beach. Realizing that the Kingsburgh municipal faced the massive task of getting the carcass off the beach and then disposing of about six tons of meat, Angus offered to take all the meat for food for his crocodiles.

* AN attempt to improve the image of Scottburgh is being motivated by estate agents in the town, but one independent agent feels it is a move to squeeze him out of business. The plan by two of the largest agencies in the town, Fred Lemmer Estates and Usher and Hatch, is to ban the erection of all 'for sale' boards.

* THEY'VE done it. Ryan Botha and Tanya Higgins have hit the double, winning the Natal junior 4 Dance Latin event at Toti Civic Centre.

* THE SA Police have established a 'business watch' to patrol the Toti business area on both sides of the railway station.

The business watch is run from a newly established police office at the Toti station.

The editor and staff of the South Coast Sun wish their advertisers, scribes and readers a blessed and safe festive season and a prosperous 2017

Aid Poppy Day collection with your time

EDITOR - On behalf of the Durban branch committee of the SA Legion, I wish to thank all those very kind members of the Durban public, including Amanzimtoti, Westville, Pinetown, Hillcrest, Waterfall, Durban North and uMhlanga Rocks areas, for their kind and generous contributions to our recent street collection on Poppy Day, 12 November.

Having banked R90,000, it's another bumper collection - R5,000 better than last year's.

We're also particularly grateful to all the kind voluntary collectors for assisting us in this regard.

Our target for next year must be R100,000, but we don't need the public to be more generous in order to reach this - we simply need more collectors.

So, please diarise Saturday, 11 November 2017 and offer us an hour or so of your time to collect at a nearby shopping mall.

RICK ANDRIËS

Unimpressed by N2's pitted tar

EDITOR - Every single motorist who has cause to use the N2 southbound daily between the Moss Kolnick and Adams Road off-ramps will be applauding the re-opening of the slow lane last week, as was reported on your front page.

While I really am grateful, the contractors could surely have first resurfaced the 100m stretch south of the sinkhole site?

It's been left badly scarred and pitted from the heavy earth-moving equipment, and I'm quite sure it will be the cause of an unnecessary accident and damage to untold numbers of vehicles if left unrepaired. Surely there has to be an assessment and sign-off on such projects when they're completed?

The finishing is an important aspect of any task and sadly, the contractors may have made their deadline but their finishing is lacking to say the least.

UNIMPRESSED

Resolve to give back

EDITOR - With the New Year approaching, we are all looking to make New Year's resolutions.

I think we need to start challenging ourselves more by thinking of new resolutions other than the common resolutions to stop smoking, diet, exercise more and so on.

Why not focus more intently on giving back to the community by walking dogs at the SPCA at least once a month or joining a local sports or social club and interacting with new people?

Most of us like to live within our comfort zone and keep to ourselves.

Then some of us are so caught up in technology and social media, we forget about our surroundings. Let's put technology aside next year and start giving back.

There are so many charities and organisations that need volunteers.

There are also many social and sports clubs that can do with new people and competition. Who knows, you might find yourself developing an unknown talent.

So before making your New Year's resolution this year, think about helping others and being more involved in your community.

Unique skate competition unlocks People's Park

RETURNING to where it all started at Moses Mabhida Stadium, Red Bull Unlocked saw the country's top skating talent descend on eThekweni on Sunday, 18 December where Durbanite Dlamini Dlamini landed some of the hottest tricks in the final to take top honours.

The 62 invited skaters from all over South Africa were whittled down to five on a specially-built course at People's Park.

Best trick went to Durban's Simon Stipich, while the final was a fiercely-fought contest between Dlamini, Gavin 'Moses' Adams (Cape Town), Brandon Valjalo (Jozi), Braxton Haynes (Durban) and Jeremy Stone (Jozi) each pushing each other to lay it all down on the course.

"There were good skaters out there," said Dlamini. "We all know each other so it didn't feel like a competition, it was just good fun with good vibes."

Of his line, he said: "I didn't really plan my moves. The course was really quick, so as soon as you landed, the next obstacle was there waiting for you. You had to create your own run and think out of the box. It's an art."

Tasked with the tough job of judging the country's best skaters were Luke Jackson of Session Magazine, Riaan van Biljoen of NSA and Brendan Body of The Shred Skateboard Park and Session Magazine, each integral roleplayers in South Africa's skateboarding scene.

"It was a really great event, the level of skating was high and the weather was perfect, if a bit hot," said Jackson, editor of Session Magazine. "The course was really interesting. There aren't a lot of events designed around a feature as such, it's usually just at a skate park. But today's Red Bull Unlocked was at one of the most iconic venues in South Africa."

Jackson said openness of the venue really gave the skaters more freedom and options, encouraging creativity which was appreciated by some 500 spectators.

"There's nothing else like this in the country," he continued. "The best trick event was definitely a highlight. They had designed a kicker up to the water feature in the centre of People's Park which the skaters had to shoot over. It was great how the existing structures had been incorporated into the contest."

Check out www.redbull.co.za for more on the day's action.

Bird of the week Chorister robin - chat

CHRISTMAS is always associated with red robins, so appropriately we give you arguably our most beautiful robin.

Most choristers in South Africa live in KZN. Those of you heading up to the Drakensberg are bound to see them.

The song is easily confused with the Natal robin. A ratchet-like 'chr-r-r chr-r-r' alarm note, rich whistling and melodious, piping trills, incorporating much imitating of other forest birds, the chorister robin's chat is highly vocal in summer.

They favour a habitat of evergreen forests, especially in a mist belt. They are usually solitary and are more often heard than seen.

The bird feeds on insects, spiders, ticks, fruit in winter and braai scraps.

They breed from October to January, laying two to three chocolate brown or olive green eggs. The nest is a shallow cup of roots and plant fibre, in a hole or cavity of a tree trunk.

They are nestlings for 14 days and are fed by both parents. The bird's Zulu name is uMananda and in Afrikaans, lawaaimaker-janfredrik.

Marie Erasmus has a festive time at the seniors Christmas lunch at Amanzimtoti Civic Centre with Reg and Honey Behr.

DIY Christmas decorations

Decorate your stairway

If you have a staircase, don't forget to include it in your decorations.

Whenever decorated homes are featured for Christmas in magazines or on TV, there is always a magnificently adorned staircase.

This is a decorating option which is very simple and creates a very dramatic effect. Start by measuring the length of your staircase or balustrade, bearing in mind how much drop you want in the swag.

Once you know how much you need, get a length of netting or organza fabric and tie to the balustrade at intervals.

At each interval, attach bows, silk flowers and baubles.

Easy table décor

USING a large vase or a fruit bowl, you can create an interesting centrepiece.

If you have made a mobile, try to incorporate the same colours into your table decor by the use of serviettes.

One trick is to use a colour scheme each year which you use in all your different decorations, so that you have a thread unifying all the different elements.

Be sure to visit Hit the Spot, a new Winklespruit restaurant in Ocean View Road this Summer and enjoy their weekly chef specials.

A letter from your pet Protect your eyes this summer

"Dear Mommy and Daddy

Did you forget me? I know you love me, but my thick, tangled coat makes me so hot in summer.

I know Santa Paws will visit us soon and I so desperately need to look my best when he comes. I have to impress him with my good looks. You know I really tried being good this past year but it was not always easy.

If you take me to Furry Tailz, I'll be so grateful and I'll promise not to drool on the carpet or claw and chew the furniture. (Well, I'll try!)

Your Loving Pet"

PS – Do yourself – and your pet – a favour and call Furry Tailz Pet Grooming today on 072-460-9727.

DURING this summer holiday, don't forget about protecting your eyes as well.

UV radiation from the sun is as harmful to the eyes as it is to your skin.

UV-A and UV-B radiation can have long- and short-term negative effects on the eyes and vision. The longer the eyes are exposed to the sun, the greater the risk of developing cataracts or macular degeneration later in life. So, whenever you spend time outdoors, wear quality sunglasses that offer UV protection and a hat or cap with a wide brim.

To provide adequate protection for your eyes, sunglasses should block out 99 to 100% of both UV-A and UV-B radiation and screen out 75 to 90% of visible light.

If you spend a lot of time outdoors in bright sunlight, consider wearing wraparound frames for additional protection from the harmful solar radiation. Don't forget protection for children and teenagers. They typically spend more time in the sun than adults.

FROGGIE Shoes are made with a difference.

With so many shoes being imported from other countries, probably one of the most important differences is that Froggie Shoes are made in South Africa by South Africans, especially for the South African woman's foot! Research conducted by Froggie, in conjunction with the University of Johannesburg, shows the South African woman's foot is different in size to that of women's feet in other countries.

"We constantly strive to bring consumers the latest in innovative shoe technology. The following range of comfort features are another reason our shoes are such a dream to wear:

Rigid, inflexible soles have been proven to cause damage to the foot. The Flex Technology Comfort Feature in Froggie Shoes ensures that they flex, mould and move with your feet, making them exceedingly comfortable to walk in.

Our under-foot foam ensures superior cushioning and support to the contours of the foot, with the added benefit of a soft and 'perfect fit' experience.

Our leathers are put through tumbling processes in order to create a soft and 'wear-friendly' product. We are proud of the variety of textures and colours that we can offer. This allows us to make an extensive range that appeals to different lifestyles," said a Froggie spokesman.

Froggie Shoes works closely in conjunction with a leading podiatrist, who assists in ensuring their shoes are a great fit.

They draw on the knowledge of design innovation, material sciences, mould making, information technology and podiatry research to bring technology into engineering shoes for the ultimate in comfort.

6 reasons not to give pets as gifts

1. As a gift, there is no cost to the recipient when receiving the animal, however the costs that are involved in caring for a pet, for their entire lifetime, are huge – from feeding a good quality diet from a PFI member brand, to annual vet checkups, pet medical aid and emergency vet visits to regular tick and flea control to accessories, grooming and training costs – if receiving a pet as a gift, consideration of one's budget or ability to afford these necessary things is often overlooked.

2. Your perspective is often not the owner-to-be's perspective. From where you sit, you may feel very strongly that the person you wish to gift the pet to could really benefit from a companion, like a dog or cat. Without discussing this perspective with them first, there's no way of knowing how right you are and springing a surprise pet on them is not the right time to find out that you had it all wrong to begin with.

3. Your choice is not necessarily the right choice. Even if you're right about the receiver of the gift wanting a companion, the choice you make may not be the right one. So many factors go into matching the right type or breed of pet to an individual, and it's certainly not a choice you can make on behalf of someone else. Aside from the costs, one needs to consider the type of pet preferred, the environment and space available for the pet, the pet or breed's individual needs and the time available to interact with the pet, etc. It's precisely for this reason that one should never make impulse decisions when purchasing a pet.

4. Pets are time consuming; kittens and puppies especially! We often forget how much time, effort and patience is needed in raising a pet from their puppy or kitten years, but let us remind you, it's hard work!

5. This time of year is potentially the busiest of all, leaving little room for bonding between the pet and new owner – an extremely important part of pet ownership. It will also be very tough to establish any type of routine between year-end functions and New Year's parties, which pets truly thrive on, so it's quite possibly the worst time of year to get a pet, especially if you were not prepared for it.

6. There are more responsible ways to make a difference, such as making a donation to a rescue centre on behalf of someone else, or, at the very least, ensuring the receiver does indeed want a pet, and then rather gifting them pet supplies so that they can make their own decision about the pet they finally adopt.

South Coast surfers excel at Summer Surf contest

OVER 100 entrants participated in the 2016 Lizzard Summer Surf competition at Umhlanga main beach, which was the opening event for the Umhlanga Summer Festival hosted by Just Juice.

Conditions on Saturday were tricky with rain and small one to two foot surf. However, on Sunday it all turned on and surfers were greeted with glassy three to four foot waves with little wind.

Masters (over 35-years) surfer Gary van Weirengen was neck and neck with Durban surfer Rob Moore Boyle during the competition. Both beat each other in heats on the way to the final and ended up tying for first place. Judges reverted back to highest wave score of the heat, which went to Rob with a 7.5 ride.

Local surfer Koby Oberholzer obliterated his opposition in the U18 boys final and beat Adin Masencamp of Cape Town, Luke Thompson of Durban and Calvin Goor of Ballito. Koby won by close on five points, posting an excellent wave score of eight points in the final. The open men division was won by Ballito's Richard Kidd who displayed solid, consistent surfing over the two days and took home R5,000 cash from Lizzard for his efforts. Mt Moreland surfer Matt Kruger was thrilled with second. Chad du Toit of Berea placed third for the third consecutive year. Dan Redman was fourth and shared the balance of R2,500 with Chad.

Cape Town surfer Natasha van Greunan not only took home the win in the open women's R2,500 from Hurricane, but also R1,000 cash from Zigzag magazine for the surfer who stood out over the weekend. Runner-up for the R1,500 from Hurricane was Lynne Mackey. Nicole Pallet was third, and Heather Clark of the South Coast fourth.

Hurricane Surfboards gave a custom-made board valued at about R5,200 to Matt Kruger as the surfer who not only surfed brilliantly, but also has a great attitude and approach to people and the ocean.

The Just Juice Tag event was again the highlight of the weekend, with local Umhlanga Club 'Wave Wizards' taking on their fierce rivals from North Beach Durban 'North Swell Club'.

Beyrick de Vries came alive and posted a nine-point ride, helping the on-form team to victory. Teammates Dan Redman, Matt Kruger, Mikey Venter and Teal Hogg were all smiles knowing they had won the lion's share of the R10,000 prize money. Northswell Club placed second, the masters team third and the groom team fourth. Umhlanga Pick n Pay supplied the judges with delicious food for the two days, Bar Ba Coa gave vouchers, Gosh Brownies were a treat for the staff and Hooters gave some extra vouchers.

Surfers, parents and spectators were stoked with the organisation of the event. Wave Wizards Club chairman Jestyn Viljoen said: "It is such a pleasure to see so many families joining in and having fun in the ocean. Conditions this year were not exceptional but we still saw some outstanding surfing on show."

Big thanks to the sponsors, judges, committee, lifesavers and Umhlanga Tourism, who all helped out in making this year another huge success."

Mazda 2 1.5 DE Auto

More bang for your bucks

By Miles Downard

Mazda has undergone something of a revival since its split from Ford. The company is hammering out some great looking machines, at great prices, with great results. This is one of the newer offerings, called the Mazda 2. It's not a new nameplate, with this B segment hatch having been around for some time, but trust me everything else about it is.

On the outside: Stunning little thing isn't it? Nice and edgy in places, rounded and voluptuous in others. In red it's especially striking. There can't be any complaints in this department.

On the inside: If there's one spot that the new generation Mazda falls down a little it's the interior, but only because of how striking the exteriors are. I suppose you expect that to continue, but it doesn't quite. Instead you're met with a clean and simple layout in the 2.

An 'i-drive' type toggle allows one to navigate through the infotainment system and other gadgets on offer there (like navigation in this top spec model). Dials and switch placement is ergonomically satisfying.

Space wise there's enough to be competitive in the segment. The boot isn't quite wide enough for a set of golf clubs, for example, but otherwise it is deep and spacious.

Behind the wheel: This 1.5 DE model indicates it's got a turbocharged oil burner under the bonnet. It's a 1.5-litre of course, good for 77kW and 250 torques. An auto 'box delivers power to the front wheels. It's a remarkable combination, probably the best small diesel auto combination I've ever driven to be honest.

Mazda has worked magic with power delivery and gearing. And fuel economy. Man this thing sips frugally at the tank, even producing sub 5 litres per hundred kilometres in stop start town conditions.

Pricing: The Mazda 2 1.5 DE Hazumi is R294,600. Might sound expensive for what is in essence a small hatchback. But compared with the rest of the segment, bearing in mind this has navigation, cruise control, climate control and a few other goodies, it's very competitive.

Verdict

LINE this up against any other diesel in the class and I'd take the Mazda every time. It's different, looks great, drives like a dream, is super economical and comes fully loaded. What more could you want?

Audi R8

The all-new uber-Audi isn't just fast. It's the fastest car to ever wear the four rings.

The previous V8 version is no more. The two new models both employ a naturally aspirated V10, and especially in top-range "plus quattro" guise it turns in true supercar performance.

Probably because it uses the same engine, with the same output, as the far more expensive Lamborghini Huracan.

To call a car with a three-bar-ish price tag a "bargain" in a country with a Gini coefficient like SA's is all kinds of wrong - yet considering what you get for your money, the R8 is just that. At least in this segment.

It also looks, drives, and feels like it belongs not in 2016 but in 2026.

2) VW Tiguan

Crossovers. SUVs. Soft-roaders. The line between them all is a little blurred.

Call them what you want, however, this is arguably the fastest-growing class of car with legions of manufacturers fielding entrants, most of which will never leave a sealed surface.

But it's the all-new VW Tiguan that comes top of the compact SUV class. It's a little larger, and a little lighter than the outgoing Tiggy - and way more attractive and refined with lashings of high-tech. Quality inside and out is up there in the premium league.

Go for the versions equipped with VW's excellent DSG self-shifter if you can.

3) Suzuki Baleno

Ever since the little SJ 410 jeeplet hit our shores in the Eighties, Suzuki has proven that if it does one thing well - so very well - it's small cars. Witness but the peppy, perky Celerio, our favourite in the budget segment.

The all-new Baleno reinforces this, and while this hatchback is just a little larger than the solid Swift, it's also around 11-percent lighter.

So even though there's only a (proven) 1.4-litre naturally aspirated engine under the hood, urge is ample, the price is right, equipment levels are high, and it's not likely to break.

4) Opel Astra

Tough, this. The 11-generation Opel Astra is pitched against the VW Golf, the default choice in this category.

But it sharply ups the ante over the previous Astra, while it's also a bit smaller and lighter - quite a feat in this age where cars seem to get larger and lardier with each incarnation.

It's solid and refined with excellent equipment levels, too.

A trio of turbopetrol engines are available. Me? I especially like the 1.4T versions teamed with Opel's six-speed auto.

The Astra is also - no accident this - the current European Car of the Year.

5) Volvo V60 Cross Country

In the world of Volvo it's the XC90 - SA's current Car of the Year - that has been snatching the glory. But if I could have one Volvo - actually make that one car - around the half-a-bar mark for all-weather, all-road, all-purpose use it would quite likely be the V60 Cross Country. It's essentially a rugged-looking, high-riding version of the V60 estate.

And with all-wheel-drive and great ground clearance, plus lashings of the Swedo-cool that this manufacturer so effortlessly executes, it's also a reminder that perhaps we don't all need SUVs.

6) BMW 7 Series

In the hyper-luxury super saloon category, the competition is fierce from everything from the Jaguar XJ to the Audi A8 to, of course, the Mercedes S-Class. But in this segment minute differences in quantifiable concerns such as output and luxury and technology are perhaps not as important as subjective ones.

So while this sixth-generation super-BMW is the most advanced in its class by virtue of being the newest, for many its real appeal will lie in the fact that it turns in physics-defying handling and performance for such a large car.

If you're being driven it's the Merc you want. If you're doing the driving, get the 7 Series.

7) Toyota Hilux

The all-new Hilux has quite an act to follow. After all, this bakkie has become part of the warp and weft of our society since its 1969 introduction. Not for fun is the term "legendary" often attached to it. So is it up to the task?

Yes, and yes again.

It's far more refined than before - particularly the up-spec models - and it's available in over 20 derivatives. If you can, opt for the versions using the new 2.4 GD-6 and 2.8 GD-6 turbodiesels - also available in the Hilux's sibling, the new Fortuner. A vehicle whose refinement, styling, and desirability is sharply upped, too. Of course, that fabled toughness is all part of the package.

8) Mercedes-Benz E-Class

The mighty Merc S-Class has always been at the very cutting-edge of Benz technology.

But that mantle has just passed to the new E-Class, arguably the most technologically advanced car you can buy, being virtually semi-autonomous.

Of course, Merc hallmarks such as a calming, balm ride, high perceived quality, and the uncanny ability to shrink distances are all part of the deal.

Look out for the E 220d running a high-tech new turbodiesel.

9) Mahindra KUV100

What? What is this little SUV-ish thing doing here? It doesn't belong. It's certainly not one of the 10 best cars I've driven in 2016, with areas that need to be improved on - especially refinement.

But the reason it's here is that the KUV100 is a huge leap forward for Mahindra.

This Indian company's products are evolving, and fast at that, so expect it to soon be a major player on our market. Remember when Korean cars first hit our shores two decades ago they were mediocre at best. Look at them now.

10) Audi A4

Subtlety and subtle evolution is the name of the game at Audi. So while its latest A4 might look a lot like the outgoing car it is, in fact, all-new as well as lighter and a little larger with new engines and a new seven-speed S tronic self-shifter replacing the old CVT 'box.

The interior especially is beautifully executed, and while this car competes with the worthy Mercedes C-Class and BMW 3 Series, it represents restrained elegance. Not a car for flashy extroverts, wide boys, and people who like doing carpark doughnuts on Saturday nights.

Mahindra KUV100

An Indian surprise

By Gavin Foster

Every now and again a car pops up that surprises the bejabbers out of me because it delivers the unexpected. One such case was the new Mahindra KUV100, a recently-launched funky little crossover.

Mahindra's been in South Africa for around 15 years, but in all that time I'd never even sat inside any of their products until I recently got my paws on a XUV500 that offered excellent value despite some obvious cost-cutting with the interior trim.

About five months ago the Indian manufacturer quietly introduced the KUV, and since then sales have grown to between 100 and 150 per month, often more than all of their other six models combined.

The KUV looks sweet, although the origin of its name is more saccharine - Kool Utility Vehicle. It's styled a little differently to its rivals and I enjoyed its lines. It's small but has more than adequate interior space for four adults, and the interior is made up mostly of quality bits laid out attractively and sensibly.

There are three specification levels - K4, K6 and K8 - with the K6 and K8 versions progressively adding features, and the only thing missing from the basic model that really matters is a sound system.

Pricing ranges from R149,995 for the petrol K4 to R179,995 for the K8.

The two fancier models are also available with diesel engines that push their prices up by R18,000.

The test car was a K8 with Mahindra's 1.2-litre naturally-aspirated petrol engine that doles out 61kW and 115Nm. It is, typically for a three-cylinder motor, a gruff little number and I liked it for the character it adds to the car. This engine takes more than 15 seconds to haul the car to 100km/h and tops out at 140km/h, but because of its nature it feels livelier than that.

The turbodiesel version has just 57kW of power, but its 190Nm of torque from 1,750rpm should inject a little urgency into the car's nature.

All models come with crisp five-speed manual gearboxes, with a stubby little gear-lever protruding from the dash quite close to your left hand on the steering wheel.

One of the best features of the little Indian car though lies in its ride quality. It's plush without being over sloppy, and for a city car of this nature it's close to perfect.

The Mahindra KUV100 comes with a three-year 100,000km warranty and a three-year 50,000km service plan for the K6 and K8. The latter is an option for the K4 version.

Tata workhorse bakkie improved

Tata's 207DI EX2, single cab workhorse one-ton bakkie has been refined with several visual and practical improvements. Good news is that it still retains its renowned load-capable dropside loadbox which has a flat floor.

The exterior has been spruced up with some bold decals along the side and on the bonnet, as well as new-look wheel covers. A very practical cab protector is another addition to the specification.

The big improvement in the cab is the fitment of comfortable, cloth-trimmed bucket seats.

"We have managed to retain the selling price at a very competitive R169,995 despite the added specification, as part of our aim to offer value-for-money to buyers of Tata vehicles," explained Larry Da Costa, General Manager Sales and Operations of Accordian Investments, a subsidiary of Imperial, which markets and distributes Tata passenger cars and light commercial vehicles in South Africa.

This workhorse has been a mainstay in the Tata LCV line-up for years and is a no-nonsense bakkie that is rugged, durable and reliable. It is aimed squarely at the business community with no pretences about being a transport alternative to a passenger car.

The Tata workhorse is powered by a 3-litre turbocharged diesel engine producing 52kW of power and 225Nm of torque. It drives the live rear axle through a five-speed manual gearbox.

The Tata workhorse bakkie is covered by a three-year/100,000km factory warranty plus road side assistance.

Viljoen's turkey trot golf pairs compo a gobble gobble success

By P Utter

WHAT awesome weather we're having at the moment after all the rain.

Umkomaas Golf Club welcomes all up-country friends who have arrived on the South Coast for their annual holiday.

Hopefully your holiday will be without incidents, enjoying a wonderful time on the coast.

Wednesday's competition was the individual stableford where club captain, Barrie Taylor welcomed visitors Deon Lamminga, Alan Sherman and son, Michael from Scottburgh. The winner was Derek Airey on a count-out, pushing Roddy McGibbon into second spot, both on 39 points. In third place was Dave Kemp, also on a count-out from fourth-placed Vesa Suhonen, both on 38 points. Scooping last place was Michael Sherman (fifth) with 36 points.

Friday, 16 December was a public holiday. Chris Viljoen organised the turkey trot pairs competition which was a 'gobble-gobble' success. Because all the prizes were turkeys of differing sizes, it was game on. Winners were Dave Kemp and Chris Viljoen on a score of 36 points, counting out second placed Sean Prendergast and Stanly Mfeka. Eric Morsner and Derek Airey counted out John Thompson and Mike Harvard into third and fourth place respectively, both with 34 points. Bringing up the rear on 33 hard-fought points was Jim Pickavance and Fred Welch in fifth place. Enjoy the turkeys everyone.

On Saturday, 17 December, there was no competition but the club was extremely busy with groups celebrating their end-of-year golf games at UGC. The club also welcomed the MOTHS to their annual Christmas luncheon, catered by Dawn Crookes. With all the celebrations on the go, there was a festive air about.

Sunday, 18 December was the re-run of the Christmas alliance, which was postponed due to rain the weekend before.

Woman's captain, Linda Toward sends a big thank you to all the players who had put their names down for Saturday, 10 December and then again on Sunday, 18 December. The support and sportsmanship towards UGC is much appreciated.

Esteemed visitors were the president of the South Coast region, Brenda Morgan, club captain of Scottburgh Golf Club, Sean Jenkins and the golf director from Selborne, John Ridl with all visitors warmly welcomed by Linda at prizegiving.

Winners of the fourball Christmas alliance were Christopher Pillay, Patrick the caddy, Alf Hopf and Saga Reddy on 97 points. Second were Erika and Kurt Ruaro and Vesa and Susi Suhonen on 95 points and the Naickers – Tom Viv and Tash together with Teddy Reddy – took third place with 93 points.

There were a lot more prizes won and it's thanks to all the sponsors and all who donated prizes.

Nearest the pin prizes went to Bryan Aldgate – fourth; Warren Taylor – ninth; Rob Symons – 13th and Dean Fisher – 17th. Sean Prendergast took the straightest drive on the 18th hole.

Mention must be made of Dave Mulroy's winning streak, starting with an 'eagle' on the first hole – in for two with five points. Dave was really on a roll after the game too, winning the heads and tails and the Castle Lite raffle. Well done, Dave.

This Saturday, 24 December is the Christmas Classic being organised by Roddy McGibbon. Anyone with an official handicap may play and Roddy can be contacted on 083- 785-2220.

The club will be closed on Sunday, 25 December (Christmas Day) and so UGC wishes all members, friends and visitors a very happy festive season. The club re-opens on Monday, 26 December.

The website is open to all to browse at www.umkomaasgolf.co.za.

Ward amazed at sports award nomination

MOUNT Edgecombe resident, Jenna Ward said she was honoured to be among the country's best after being named as a nominee for Sportswoman of the Year at the South Africa Sports Awards. Ward who had a stellar year representing South Africa in paddling, was among three nominees from the paddling fraternity, including Hank McGregor and Kim Pople.

Ward was in the Sportswoman of the Year category, with Olympic gold medalist, Caster Semenya (the winner on the night) and South African netball player, Phumza Maweni.

"I'd never dreamed that I would be rubbing shoulders with athletes like Wade van Niekerk, Caster and Henri Schoeman. It was such an honour being nominated especially as this was an Olympic year. It's the first time I was nominated for any sports award. I've never been up for a KZN or South African nomination, so it's just amazing," she said.

Ward's achievements included finishing third in the K1 U23 world champs, winning the U23 ICF Ocean Racing World Championships in Tahiti and winning silver at the ICF Canoe Marathon World Championships in Brandenburg, Germany.

President of Canoeing South Africa, Christo Horn also paid tribute to Ward and her fellow canoeists.

"To have three nominations at such a prestigious event is incredible for our sport and along with Kim, we are also really proud of Hank and Jenna for their respective nominations," Horn added.

Toti Bowling Club's women's' teams who broke the men's four-year winning streak in the annual 'battle of the sexes'.

Men lose battle of the sexes at ABC

By Jack E Toucher

IT was a very busy finale to 2016 at Toti Bowling Club with three fun competitions taking place in the beautiful weather of the long weekend.

Firstly, the hotly contended 'battle of the sexes' took place on Friday, 16 December.

This year the 10 teams of women were very pleased to break the men's four-year winning streak by 25 points to 17 and receive the floating trophy. The 100 board prizes were won by Gaynor Snyman, Vince Marriott, Mike Groom, Gladys Hughes and Sue Welch.

To add to the fun there were prizes for all, sponsored by the club and several members. Many thanks for those who donated to this and the Christmas hamper.

Saturday, 17 December was turkey day. Winners of the women's game were Tokkie de Kock, Sue Welch and Debbie Gueffroy, each receiving a turkey. Julie Sutherland, Amanda Ninow and Margaret van Belkum were runners-up, winning gammons, while second session winners Pam Chalder-Royle, Marie van der Walt and Lys McDonald won chickens. Pete Shepard won a gammon on the 100 board.

In the men's turkey, Ian Mills, Bobby Henderson and Wessie van der Westhuizen won turkeys, Clive Frank, Paul Els and Leon van Rensburg in second place won gammon, and Ian Crouch, Jeff van Belkum and Brian Cox won chickens for the second session.

The 100 board gammon was won by Peter Snyman.

WINNERS

It was monthly 'big chicks' on Sunday, 18 December and winners were Greg McLeod, Doug Joubert, Mike Pitchers and Lynn Joubert, with runners-up Adie Fuller, Rob Troughton, Peter Snyman and Karen Shepherd.

Third were Willem Pelzer, Alec Stirzaker, Jenny Delpont and Terry Morgan.

First session was won by Nan Roos, Owen Turner, Paul Davies and Steve Woor. Peter Callaghan, Clive Frank, Shane Toucher and Julie Sutherland took second session. Thirteenth place went to Alf Bingham, Barry Buckland, Chris van der Westhuizen and Maggie Robertson, and 'most bowls' to Linden and Heather Cooper, Boet Els and Greg Veldsman. ABC's thanks go to the sponsors of this game, Food Lovers Market, Brian Pascoe and Gladys Hughes.

Earlier in the week Denise Bingham defeated Talla Stephens-Viviers in a women's open singles game. Good bowling to Denise in the next round.

There will be a demo of the exciting new B-20 bowls format on Friday, 6 January at 3.30pm for interested members. TGIF will start again on the same evening, and Saturday, 7 January sees the semi-finals of the women's drawn fours.

Birthdays between now and the next edition of the Sun in January are Yvonne Wright, Hennie van der Walt, Debbie Groom, Doug Joubert, Ian Shearer, K Pollard, Mervyn Conway, Chris van der Westhuizen, Jacqui Fouché and Jenny Delpont.

On a sad note, past member Joy Steele died a few days ago, so condolences are sent to her family and friends.

Finally, season's greetings to all past and present members. May you have a lovely holiday season and come back refreshed for another year of friendly battles and warm friendship.

Toti anglers buoy KZN school league team at nationals

THE KZN Coastal Anglers Union (KZNCAU) is proud to announce the first U16 school league team has been selected to represent the union at the junior nationals being held in Mossel Bay in January.

Saveshan Chetty (15), Jared Naidoo (15), Sean Bennett (14) of Amanzimtoti, Navolen Chetty (13) and Tashil Moodley (13), also of Amanzimtoti, are the juniors who will participate in this inaugural national tournament.

These selected anglers were part of the first KZNCAU transformation development initiative which was spearheaded by KZNCAU development officer, Sheik Fazil, and assisted by a team of volunteers who sacrificed countless hours of family and personal time to implement the programme.

"The initiative is geared towards uplifting and empowering previously disadvantaged individuals and propelling them to achieving provincial and national honours," said Fazil.

"The selected anglers have sacrificed many long hours, honing their skills and have shone through as diamonds in the rough."

They can now proudly stand toe-to-toe with some of the finest anglers at union competitions, having excelled at the round-robin selection tournament held earlier this year.

In an era where most youngsters are caught up in the digital revolution, it's refreshing that these dedicated youngsters have chosen to embrace the great outdoors – with the sandy shores as their playground.

It's only fitting that their accomplishment be recognised."

The team seeks sponsorship towards their tournament costs and should any businesses or individuals be interested in assisting, call team manager, Sundesh Pursad on 082-880-0903 or email assistant manager, Noel Nadasen at noelnadasen21@gmail.com.

Toti runner, Edmund Luiz tackles the Winkle Toti Winkle Ski Race and Beach Run at Winkle.

The first KZN U16 school league team to represent the Union at the nationals in Mosselbay in January - assistant manager, Noel Nadasen of Amanzimtoti, Jared Naidoo, Saveshan Chetty, Tashil Moodley, Navolen Chetty, Sean Bennet and team manager Sun Desh Pursad.

The editor and staff of the South Coast Sun wish their advertisers, scribes and readers a blessed and safe festive season and a prosperous 2017
